The whaling bark Peru returned this week from St. Paul's Island, where she has been engaged in assisting in establishing a new for enterprise. She brings about forty thousand scal skine, which is considered as a very accousful season's work. These skins are worth comparatively little here (say $1 50), but after undergoing certain processes, they command a good price in the northern European markets, especially in St. Petersburg. We copy the following from one of the New London papers, ship, but found it was impossible to save much of anything. The bark Andrews (which was reported in our last as being at) went ashere on the 14th of November, 1867, at Harrison's last) went ashers on the 14th of November, 1867, at Harrison's Point, Cumberland Iniet. Capt Packard, with a portion of the crew, arrived in this city on Friday evening last, having taken passage in the schooner Era, of New London. From Capt Packard we have the following particulars: Both anchors were out, and the vessel went ashore with such force that both the anchors with the vessel were dragged up a ill, leaving him at the top of high water, with 6 feet of water her she was abundoned. The mute and three men took passage in the steamer Lyon for St Johns, N.F. The remainder of the crew went on board the schooners Franklin and Quickstep, of ew London, who still remained in the injet when the Era left The Andrews was owned by Jonathan Bourne, Jr., and Edward C. Jones, of this city, and was valued, when she willed from this port May 20th, 1867, with outlits, at $32,990. There is an insurance upon her of $12,000 at the Union Mutual and $8,000 at the Ocean Mutual offices in this city.—N. B. Saipping List.
